What's New in the Cyber Cryptomaniac?

Cryptonight is a multi-algorithm open source implementation of the Monero protocol (also known as Cryptonight). Cryptonight is an implementation of the Monero protocol with an original design (see "Design Principles" below) and several new features, such as hashing algorithm, message data size, money transmittal mode and more.

Cryptonight is the default Monero transaction engine, which means that when the wallet detects a Monero transaction, it will use this implementation and not the standard one. This Monero transaction engine is now available as an official application for Windows and Mac operating systems. Cryptonight features a multi-algorithm implementation and includes SHA256, SHA256X32, SHA512 and Keccak hashing algorithms as well as the standard Keccak and RIPEMD160 message digests.

Cryptonight is open source, which means that it can be used to test and build it locally on your machine.
