Description: TotalReminder is a mobile agenda that can help users manage their personal information.
Once started, it opens in the left panel, while the central panel is a reminder window where the agenda the program, users can choose between importing data from an external document or from a file on the hard disk, and then create or open one or more agendas. The agendas can then be marked as a reminder. When one of the agendas is triggered, a corresponding window displays a list of reminders, and one can select the appropriate one to remove, or one can add additional reminders if such actions are warranted.
